

The ocean adventure

As the sun set he could just see the figure of something purple. It had wiggling things coming out of it and sounded like evil laughter. The mystery fish who was watching swam away in fright. Minutes later he was back. He loved exploring and this was his chance to do it. He swam toward the market where he heard the laughter.

As he swam closer he heard the purple creature say "this poison will be great for the fruit then I will sell it and hypnotize everybody in the sea."

"I need to find out what animal he is" said the mystery fish as he swam closer when he saw what animal it was he gasped. It was an octopus putting sticky poison in fruit. "Oh no!" said the mystery fish "I need to tell everybody." The next day the mystery fish saw a big group of sea creatures so he swam toward them. "Guys I have got some bad news" said the mystery fish. "Last night I saw that octopus over there put poison in the fruit he is selling."

"Ha do you think we are going to believe you?" said the crab.

Suddenly the mystery fish saw the octopus was chasing him so he swam as fast as he could to his house but his house was wrecked and he knew the octopus would be back soon. Right at that moment someone taped him. There standing behind him was a jellyfish called Genevieve "I believed you when you told us about the octopus here come to my house we will make a plan there" said Genevieve.

When they got to Genevieve's house they thought up a plan. They will video the octopus putting poison in the fruit and tell the octopus they will show everybody if he does not give up being evil. When they got to the market they put their plan into action. They videoed the octopus putting poison in the fruit and told him "we will show everyone this video if you do not give up evil." Finally after a lot of persuading the octopus stopped being evil. Everyone who he poisoned stopped being evil too and went back to normal. Together Genevieve and the mystery fish saved the ocean and the octopus became best friends with them. "I knew he would be our friend one day" said the mystery fish.

The end

By Vivienne