Clapham is turning 60!

Dear Clapham Community,
60 years ago, a little school with a big heart was born. It is an exciting time at Clapham Primary School as we celebrate our history while looking forward to the future. We are immensely proud of our school and will continuously strive to ensure it continues for another six decades.

Over the next few months, we will be keeping you informed on up-and-coming anniversary celebrations. On behalf of Clapham Primary School, we would sincerely like to thank you for all your support tonight. We hope you have a great time!
Many thanks

Clapham Primary School celebrating 60 years

Clapham Primary School 1961

Early history to present

Clapham Primary School first opened in February 1961, not at the present site on Barretts Road, but in temporary, portable rooms at Colonel Light Gardens School. This situation arose because the newly built school was not ready for occupation. The temporary rooms were used until the last week of the first term when approximately 170 students and staff were transferred and allocated to rooms on the grounds and first floors in the West Wing of Clapham.

The East Wing was occupied by students and staff of Mitcham Girls High School for several years until their own school was built at Kingswood. The school was officially opened by the Minister of Education, Sir Baden Pattison. A little trivial fact...No hands were allowed on the wooden railings in case the varnish should show any signs of wear and tear.

From little things big things grow!

From Clapham Primary

Dear Trish, Mel, Jess, Alli, Catherine and Jasmine,
Thank you so much for your hard work to bring our Quiz Night together. With your help, this event will greatly assist our school. Thanks for all you have done. Your willingness to give freely of your time is greatly appreciated. All your efforts will make a huge difference in our community. It has been a massive job and you have been amazing! Thank 😊

GOODLUCK!!

Clapham goes 60s at Quiz Night

Australia's Best Quiz Night

By Quizzame

Pens and paper are so 2014... with QuizzaMe each team is given a wireless buzzer with A - E on it, a question is shown on the screen, and there are five possible answers. The timer starts and each team locks in their answer using their buzzer.

All the questions are randomly selected by the QuizzaMe computer, and the questions are from a huge range of categories including music, science, history, sport, literature, entertainment, art and general knowledge. Your knowledge does not have to be at genius level to succeed at QuizzaMe. Good Luck!
